NEW YORK, May 13.—Doctor Talmage's Tabernacle burned again here to-day and the loss with other property, before the fire was controlled, reached two million dollars. The fire started in the tabernacle organ and was under full headway before it was discovered. Though heavily in debt, the amount realized from insurance will enable the tabernacle to be rebuilt, but in a less expensive way and on another site.

NEW YORK, May 12.—A Herald dispatch from San Salvador says: A closely contested engagement took place yesterday between the Government army and the rebel forces. The battle, which lasted two hours, was carried on by both infantry and artillery. It was a terrible and bloody struggle. The rebel forces were finally dislodged from their position, and the Government army, under General Joaquin Lopez, took possession. It is believed this triumph will have a great influence on the final result. The rebels continue to disband, and to-day they were confined to Santa Ana, the rebel city.

DURHAM, N. C., May 12.—The torpedo boat "Ericsson," the first United States vessel ever built in inland waters, was launched to-day in the presence of several thousand people. Addresses were delivered and there was a parade of military and civic organizations. Miss Carrie Kiene christened the vessel.

PARIS, May 11.—A shocking murder was discovered this morning in a perfumer's shop near the general postoffice in this city. The shop which was kept by a girl, who was about 20 years old, has been closed since Tuesday evening and the proprietress had been missing from her home. The police forced the doors of the shop and found the body of the girl lying on the floor in a pool of blood. Around her neck was a rope and a thighbone of a razor imbedded in her throat.

Utah's Industrial army last Sunday followed in the line of many of its kind and practically ended its career by seizing one of the U. P. Co's trains. It appears that about one o'clock that morning about forty of them boarded a west bound train and rode to Lodi Junction. At that point they captured an engine and coach of the Tintic passenger that lies over there, and hooked on a couple of box cars. Union Pacific Engineer Blake was in charge, and they brought him along but didn't use him, the army engineer running the train. The captured train was run down and switched on to the Rio Grande track. In the mean time the main body of the army had quietly broken camp and gone across the fields to a point on the Rio Grande near the watering place of Geneva. At this point the train stopped, and they piled aboard and pulled out slowly for the east. Superintendent Welby had prepared a warm reception for them, and torpedoes began to crack when they entered Provo. When almost to the depot a switch was quickly thrown half open just in front of the engine, and it, the tender and the coach were derailed. The boys jumped off and began working away to get it back on the rails. They succeeded in replacing the coach, but were stopped by Sheriff Brown about noon. That officer took possession of the engine and placed guard over it. About 1:30 a special arrived on the Union Pacific loaded with road officials and forty deputy U. S. Marshals. The result was that twenty-seven leading spirits of the army were arrested and taken that evening to the penitentiary at Salt Lake. They will be charged with contempt of court in having interfered with property which is in the hands of the court, which is the case with all the U. P. system. Governor West, on request, called out the militia, but no trouble ensued though the presence of the militia is thought to have had a decided restraining influence on the army, which once or twice was disposed to be boisterous, as their leaders were arrested and taken away. The arrest of the twenty-seven leading members had the effect of breaking the army up practically, and that evening a good many of the organization were seen moving off in squads.

A later statement of the ditching of the train at Provo is that the switch was left open the night before, the regular train being stopped, and as notice that it was open, torpedoes were put on the track as signals, according to usual custom. The engineer of the industrial, who was running the train, called out when the first torpedo was reached, "This means danger!" He was answered by those in charge, "It's only a bluff. Go ahead." He obeyed orders and the result was a ditched train.

On Monday a lady residing a few miles out of town, came in and interviewed Joe Cook chairman of the political club in relation to the recruiting of the Pioche contingent of the Coxy army. The chairman explained everything satisfactorily and she desired to join the ranks immediately if not sooner, as she was anxious to get to Washington to go after the fellow that pulled down silver. She was instructed to hold herself in readiness to march at any moment.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Correspondence of THE RECORD.

WASHINGTON, May 9, 1894.

The presence of 500 men camped for a week within the limits of the National Capitol, banded together under the name of an "army," and threatening openly to remain until joined by a sufficient number of men to intimidate Congress into granting the ridiculous demands of its self-appointed leader, and the circumstances attendant upon their coming and their stay here presents quite as impressive an "object lesson" as the financial "object lesson" inaugurated by the Cleveland administration about this time last year, and unless the difference between liberty and license is more sharply defined may lead to quite as much misery. That a majority of the men that this man Coxy has enticed into Washington and quartered in a pest hole from which he has moved his valuable horses for fear of their dying from the foul and malarial atmosphere are lazy, good-natured tramps, only intent upon avoiding work and being fed, is apparent by their refusal of work when offered them, but it is equally apparent that this man Coxy means mischief should his force grow strong enough to make it, and the Populist Senators and Representatives are doing all they can to encourage it. When this man Coxy and two of his followers were arrested for violating law in their absurd attempt to speak from the steps of the Capitol, every Populist in Congress who could make any claim to being a lawyer appeared in the police court, nominally as their volunteer defenders, but in reality to intimidate that court.

The manner in which the old law, docking the pay of members of the House absent without leave, except on account of sickness, is being enforced is extremely farcical. The members are allowed to certify their own absence and the highest number of days that any member has owned up to being absent was six, while any number of them who were absent at times during the month of April returned no certificate of absence and drew their full month's pay. The Speaker of the House, who under this law is required to O. K. the certificates of the members before they are paid by the Sergeant-at-Arms, declines to go behind the returns made by the members, even if he has actual knowledge of their incorrectness, thus leaving the matter entirely with the consciences of the members. Experience has proven that men's consciences are very much like rubber when questions arise affecting their pocketbooks.

Sugar has certainly played a star part in the tariff-tinkering farce comedy that has been going on in the Senate for five weeks, and unless information that has been received from Louisiana is incorrect, sugar is either going to get all the flowers in the last act or it is going to break up the show. Demands have been made upon Senators Caffery and Blanchard, of La., by the sugar planters of that State, that they repudiate the forty per cent ad valorem duty put on sugar by the present bill and demand a straight duty of two cents a pound—forty per cent is a fraction less than one cent a pound—and vote against the entire bill if the two cent duty is not put on sugar. This is very embarrassing to the Senators named, who have already in caucus agreed to support the bill as it stands. They are, it is said, given their choice of obeying the demand of the sugar planters or retiring from the Senate. They both hold gubernatorial appointments, and the legislature that will meet on the 15th, will elect Senators to fill both of the unexpired terms, as well as one for a full term. To fully understand the situation it must be remembered that the Louisiana legislature is said to be overwhelmingly in favor of a two cent duty on sugar, and that it has the power should Caffery and Blanchard decline to fight for it to send, within forty-eight hours after its meeting, and to the above described property, either to support the bill as it stands, or to retire from the Senate. The oil, sugar, whiskey and other trusts have been taken care of, through Democratic threats to defeat the tariff bill, so who can blame the Louisiana people for taking advantage of the power given them by a chain of extraordinary circumstances to demand what they want. Ever since the Senate began its tariff tinkering, it has been a grab game. Why shouldn't Louisiana grab her share? It is to head off the action of the Louisiana Senators that the proposition has been made in the House to put an amendment on the legislative and executive appropriation bill, repealing the sugar bounty, but its efficacy would be more than doubtful, although there is little doubt about its being put through the House easy enough. But, if the Louisiana Senators can defeat the tariff bill, unless their demands are met they can also defeat the repeal of the sugar bounty. It looks to a man up a tree as though they can be absolute masters of the situation if they have the nerve and the will to be such.

Congress trying all they can to make us still more poor, ain't we got a bright outlook for 1894."

The Best Medicine

J. O. Wilson, Contractor and Builder, Sulphur Springs, Texas, thus speaks of Ayer's Pills:

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine I ever tried; and, in my judgment, no better general remedy could be devised. I have used them in my family and recommended them to my friends and employes for more than twenty years. To my certain knowledge, many cases of the following complaints have been completely cured."

Permanently Cured
by the use of Ayer's Pills alone: Third day chills, dumb ague, bilious fever, sick headache, rheumatism, flux, dyspepsia, constipation, and hard stools. I know that a moderate use of Ayer's Pills, continued for a few days or weeks, as the nature of the complaint required, would be found an absolute cure for the disorders I have named above."

"I have been selling medicine for eight years, and I can safely say that Ayer's Pills give better satisfaction than any other pill I ever sold."—J. J. Perry, Spottsylvania C. H., Va.
